FRAZER SCHOOLHOUSE

This building at 62 John Street in New Edinburgh, which dates from 1837, and which is currently owned by the NCC, has been offered to Heritage Ottawa to house exhibits and displays related to our architectural heritage, and to provide a base of operations including an office and a bookstore. One of our long-range goals is the eventual restoration of the building and we will be working with architectural students from Carleton University under the direction of Barry Padolsky to do the basic research required to prepare a feasibility study for the project.

In the meantime, we cannot open the building to the public until we have established a group of volunteers who would like to spend one or two hours, or even half a day to provide supervision, answer questions and look after book sales. Anyone who is interested in helping this exciting project get started should contact Ted MacDonald at 996-4065 during the day, or 521-4204 evenings.

TO REMEMBER

There are too few words to justly describe the contribution made to the preservation of Ottawa's heritage, by Gladys Blair. Her passing is a loss to our organization, which she helped found, to our city, which she helped preserve and to our culture which she enriched with her writings.

ONTARIO HERITAGE LEGISLATION

This past summer the Government of Ontario enacted Bill 176 "to provide for the Conservation, Protection and Preservation of the Heritage of Ontario". The main points of the bill, insofar as they are of interest to heritage groups such as ours, are as follows:

1. The act enables each municipality in Ontario to designate those properties which are of historic or architectural interest. Any person who objects to such designation has the right to appeal, in which case the matter is referred to a Provincial Review Board.
2. Once a heritage building has been so designated by the municipality, no owner may alter or demolish the building without written consent from the municipal council. In the case of demolition, council can refuse the application and prohibit any demolition, but only for a period of 180 days.
3. The municipality can purchase, lease or expropriate any designated property and then dispose of it as it sees fit.
4. The municipality can make grants or loans to owners of designated properties to aid in maintenance or alternation.
5. The act also enables municipalities to designated such districts in its official plan. Buildings within the historic conservation districts are afforded the same "protection" as the individual buildings mentioned above.

This act, which is administered by the new Ministry of Culture and Recreation, contains a number of other provisions affecting such things as the Ontario Heritage Foundation, archaeological sites, penalties for offenses, etc. We can only cover the highlights in a newsletter such as this, but members who are interested are advised to read the entire act.

While it can be argued that any heritage legislation is better than none, we feel that the act has several basic weaknesses:

1. It is left to the discretion of each municipality to decide what emphasis will be placed on its architectural heritage, and this could lead to a lack of uniformity in applying the act across the province.
2. The act offers no positive or permanent protection to heritage buildings; it can only delay their demolition or alternation by a maximum of 270 days.

We feel that as a first step in strengthening the act, a) the Province should play a more positive role in designating heritage sites, and b) if a building merits designation it should then receive permanent protection from demolition.

With the provincial election almost upon us you may wish to discuss the act with the candidates in your ridings. Some may have given the whole question of heritage protection some thought, others may not be aware of the importance of this issue. Now is a good time for you to find out!
