LACAC MEANS HERITAGE TO OTTAWA

At the Annual Meeting of Heritage Ottawa, on May 31, members were treated to an interesting talk by Georges Bédard, Alderman for By St-Georges Ward.

In 1972, the Special Mayor's Committee on Heritage was formed to evaluate the significance of Ottawa's heritage and recommend measures for its conservation. Heritage conservation was established as a significant consideration in City planning and an Archivist and Heritage Planner were added to the City Planning Branch in early 1974.

It was approved that a Citizens' Advisory Committee on Heritage be established to provide information for future heritage programs. The primary responsibility of the Committee is to supply the City with advice and assistance on heritage matters. The second major responsibility is to advise and comment on specific heritage cases as problems arise.

The Heritage Advisory Committee (now known as LACAC) is composed of up to fifteen persons appointed for a two-year term. The citizens serving on the Committee have an expert knowledge in heritage and conservation and represent a broad spectrum of community interests and organizations.

Since its inception, the Advisory Committee has been instrumental in saving such heritage properties as the Billings Estate and Philomene Terrace. Recent Committee problems centre around the purchase and design of bronze plaques for heritage properties, and the style of lamps to be erected in heritage areas, such as Sandy Hill.

It is the hope of Heritage Ottawa that, working hand-in-hand with LACAC, more of Ottawa's historical character can be preserved.

LACAC NOTES

A major breakthrough for heritage homeowners came about at a recent LACAC meeting when a formal recommendation was made for heritage grants. Approval for this programme is expected following discussion with the City Finance Department.

Owners of heritage-designated properties would be able to apply for a grant of up to $5,000 for restoration and upkeep of their homes. This long-awaited programme will serve as an incentive as well as an aide to these special homeowners. Costs for the maintenance and restoration of heritage buildings often exceed those for more recently erected structures, simply because of their age.

According to the written recommendation: "Owners of buildings of heritage value ... who require assistance in maintaining, repairing or restoring the exterior portion of their premises... may apply for a single grant of 33% of the total cost of such work... up to a total of $5,000 for designated buildings and $3,000 for listed buildings within designated areas."

Application would be made by the owners to City Council for approval of the alteration of a designated property.

The following heritage designations were recommended at the last meeting:

Earnscliffe Estate, Sussex Drive; Union Station, Rideau Street; Connaught Building, Sussex Drive; Victoria Memorial Museum, McLeod Street.
